Project Information

The California Coastal Act requires local governments to prepare and implement Local Coastal Programs (LCPs) to protect natural and man-made coastal resources and maximize public access to the shoreline. Climate change makes that effort more challenging, as the sea level rises and severe storms become more frequent, threatening coastal resources and communities. Your feedback will be crucial in shaping Oxnard's LCP to reflect the community's vision, address coastal hazard risks, and align with the goals of the Coastal Act.
